

Karmel Timmons has loved to draw since early childhood. When she moved to Elbert, CO she was inspired by the beautiful landscapes and horses on the ranches near her home. Combining her ability to capture detail, texture and mood in pencil with her admiration for her equine subjects, resulted in a career as a professional artist. Karmel has exhibited her work at various art shows in Cody, WY; Prescott, AZ; and Lexington, KY. In 2005-2007 she was People's Choice at the Coors Western Art Exhibit and Sale. Her works have been published in Southwest Art, Art of the West, Western Art Collector, Western Horseman, Eclectic Horseman and Horses in Art.

Shane R Hendren's award winning jewelry draws upon his roots and his relationship to the land. Native American history runs through Shane's veins, not just because of his Navajo genes but because of his experience on the land and with horses. He comes from a long line of ranchers. With several fine arts degrees, one from the University of New Mexico, his work is internationally acclaimed and collected. He has won many awards. He is a valuable member of the Advisory Board of AtlAtl and the boards of Indian Arts and Crafts and its Education Fund. In 2009 he was called on by the British Museum as an expert panelist on the new school of Native American turquoise jewelry. Shane is not only exceptionally talented, but he has a heart to give back to his community. You may contact Shane at: shanerhernden@hotmail.com

Shawna Lee Bennett can't shake the feeling that she should have been born 100 years earlier. Raised in Benjamin, UT, she has lived in Pinedale, WY since 1994. She is an office manager, mom and grandma by day, self-taught artist by moonlight (literally) and a barrel racer. Shawna's work reflects her love of horses, wildlife, and the outdoors. She specializes in wood carving, custom painted furniture and horse tack, glass etching, pyrography, pen & ink drawings, and painted feathers. You can see Shawna's work by visiting Artistry In The Pines Painted Tack on Facebook or contact her by email at: artistryinthepines@yahoo.com or www.facebook.com/artistryinthepines
